MEDICAL STAFF ORGANIZATION & STRUCTURE

Hall Render's experience as a health care focused law firm with a national client base has provided us with a keen understanding of medical staff organization and operational issues, as well as unique insight into the variety of issues involved in medical staff self-governance and effective medical staff operations. Our firm advises hospitals, health systems and medical staffs on organizational and structural issues related to the numerous challenges facing medical staffs and physicians today. We also assist clients in reviewing the efficiency and effectiveness of their medical staff structures and related processes. Our attorneys counsel hospital administration, medical staff leadership and governing boards on virtually every aspect of medical staff organization and governance. We prepare medical staff bylaws and related governing and credentialing documents, ensuring the use of "best practices" and compliance with state law and accreditation standards. We also provide advice and counsel in appropriately addressing medical staff leadership challenges.
